

IMAGINATION CENTRAL

Clean, crisp architectural solutions that respond imaginatively and effectively to a client's brief are a hallmark of Archidiom Design

Facing page Archidiom Design creates a variety of out-of-the-ordinary designs. Examples include an extension of an existing office building with a bold new facade blurring the line between original and new, a condominium high-rise on the Gold Coast, and a house design for a gated community in New Delhi.

This page An existing building has been turned into a boutique hotel with Archidiom's porous, almost cartoon-like facade. A beach-side condominium tower by Archidiom features brightly coloured elements. The company's spectrum of expertise includes refined interiors, such as for this upmarket Gold Coast residential tower.

Achieving eye-catching, modern architecture requires a lot more than a talent for imaginative concepts. Only an inspired design company with hard-won industry experience is likely to have the professional expertise to combine inspired design ideas into a practical, working reality.

Archidiom Design is an architectural design office with a flair for the unusual, says managing director Michael Chan.

"Our architectural designs are as diverse in usage and locality as they are in terms of aesthetics," says Chan. "Archidiom's diverse works cover everything from private homes in India, to high-rises in Macau and condominium complexes dotted along the Gold Coast – to name only a few examples."

Chan says that behind Archidiom's imaginative designs lies a committed, energetic design team. This forms a core unit, working in association with ancillary disciplines to achieve the best outcome for clients.

"The combined experience of our firm provides a solid foundation to meet any challenges a job might throw up," says Chan. "This applies whether sustainability, ergonomic efficiency, or complex site considerations are at issue – even our most dramatic concepts are always grounded in practical efficiency."

"A closely staged design process on all projects ensures our clients, whether in Australia, Asia or India, are always in the loop throughout any given project."
